

Governance, Leadership and Management

The Department is actively engaged in the field of sociological issues and problems in the context changing socio-economic and political situation both within and outside the country. The faculties of the department are continuously engaged themselves in producing research papers, writing books and articles, presenting research papers and participating in various national and international seminar, conferences and workshop. Faculties are academically working in the field of gender issues; rural and tribal societies; socio-cultural change process; polity and society; religion and identity; human rights and movements; crime and its related issues; poverty and migration; development policies of the state in the socio-economic sector; agrarian institutions and it changing forms in India and the various contemporary themes related to the process of globalization. he faculties of the Department are also members of various academic associations, institutions and Non-Governmental Organizations. Some senior facilities are also actively contributed in various projects conducted by the national and international organizations.