

National Seminar
Contemporary Perspective of Gandhian Thoughts
(3rd-4th March 2017)
Convener – Dr. Pankaj Singh

Today mankind is compelled to live together in the midst of all the civilizational achievements and civil dilemmas. This modern crisis has not only prevented the possibilities of revolutionary transformation of societies today, but it has also led to a competition for environmental-crisis and widespread exploitation of natural resources in the name of scientific advances. Today the world has reached the brink of destruction due to material prosperity and ill-fated ambition to become the best on the strength of weapons. Today, the violent ideological conflict, both national and international level, intense caste hatred, aggressive and narrow nationalism, communalism and excessive insistence on fundamentalism have put the world on the threshold of third world war. Today, most of the countries of the world are engaged in increasing their influence on the global level by indiscriminately increasing the number of nuclear weapons which will surely one day cause unimaginable destruction for the world. In such a situation, Gandhiji is needed the most to survive and make possible the possibility of a happy present and prosperous future. Gandhiji's entire contemplation is a reliable assurance of the freest and best emergence of all beings. His concerns include the human as well as the extra-human world. The current crisis of mankind is focusing on the problems of civilizational development, so our return to Gandhiji is both justified and necessary.
